Write the following:

- A sentence must contain a subject and a predicate. A sentence's subject often contains a noun and that a sentence's predicate contains a verb.
- A noun is a person, place, thing or idea whereas a verb is a word that expresses the action or existence of a subject.

Write the sentences below. Identify the simple subject (underline once) and simple predicate (underline twice) in each of the following sentences.

1. Last year my family traveled to Mecca, Saudi Arabia.
2. The crowded corner market is having a sale.
3. Love stinks.
4. At school they say my name funny as if the syllables were made out of tin and hurt the roof of your mouth.
